Interview

Meaning: Interview means a formal meeting or conversation where one person asks question and other person answer them.

Significance

An interview is an important method of communication used to gather information, assess skills and understand a person's opinions or qualifications. It plays a significant role in area such as employment, education, media and research. Interviews help in making decisions, sharing knowledge, building better understanding between individuals.

Definition :-

An interview is a conversation where one person asks questions and another person answers them to get information or know more about them.

Types of Interview

① Structured Interview

A structured interview follows a fixed set of questions. Every candidate is asked the same questions in the same order.

This method helps in fair comparison of answers. It is mostly used in job recruitment & research.

② Unstructured Interview

An unstructured interview does not follow fixed questions. The conversation flows freely between the interviewer and the candidate.

③ Semi-Structured Interview

A semi structured interview includes both planned and open-ended questions. The interviewer has a guide but can ask extra questions if needed.

④ Personal Interview

A personal interview is conducted face to face. It helps the interviewer observe confidence & communication skills.

① Nadira

Nadira was the eldest daughter of Mohammad Khan. She is very religious and reads the Quran thoroughly. She had never missed namaaz, she prays 5 times a day. She had been fasting since she was 10 years old.

during
Ramzan

Nadira was married to Rashid. Rashid & Nadira were made for each other. They loved each other very much. She never ate food until her husband returned, whatever the time. Nadira rarely missed her mother's house. She was very happy in her married life. She never troubled her husband for anything, she never hurt her mother-in-law. She was ready to sacrifice her life for her family - little Kavalli house. She ~~had~~ never crossed the Chandragiri river alone as it was not allowed. She never went out alone without a male family member.

Her father Mohammad Khan, failed to arrange money for Jamila's marriage. He asked Rashid to give money but Rashid refused to give money. This made her father angry and disappointed. Her father then

Rashid

Rashid was Nadira's husband and ran a small business in his town. His house was 3 miles away from town. He lived in a small village called 'Kavalli'. His house was simple and surrounded by ^{palms} coconut trees, banana and areca nut trees. His income came from his shop and trees. Rashid married Nadira when she was 14. He was 25. Rashid agreed to marriage because of pressure from his mother ^{Amina}. Aghamma Khan gave 10 sovereigns of gold and 2000 rupees in dowry. Rashid had never seen Nadira before marriage. His mother Amina told him that Nadira was beautiful and religious. He ~~said~~ His mother said that Nadira was very pretty, still young, large eyes, a bow-shaped face. She also told him that Nadira was very religious and reads Quran thoroughly. She had never missed namaz, she prays 5 times a day. She had been fasting during Ramzan since she was 10 years old, so she is an ideal bride. Rashid believed his mother's words but still worried that the girl was too young.

Brought Nadira went to his daughter's house. He asked Amina to send his daughter's baby with him in the beginning. She hesitated to send her daughter in law without consenting with her son. At last she decided to send her with her father. He decided that he would not send her back to Rashid house. Nadira waited for her husband, hoping he would come to take her back. But her husband did not come which made her sad & helpless. Her father forced her to take talaq from Rashid. He tried to arrange ~~for~~ her marriage with another man named Selim. Nadira refused because she loved her husband. Later her father planned to remarry her to Rashid but with a condition that she had to marry another man first & then take talaq from him. Her marriage arranged with an old man, Sheikh Ali. Nadira does not agree to this marriage. In the end, she chose death & jumped into lake. It he saved her for the first time only on the wedding night. Even after marriage he was not fully confident in beginning.

Nadira was a loving, obedient & good woman but became victim of strict custom & family pressure.

Rashid followed a simple & peaceful daily routine. On Fridays he did not go to work. He stayed at home & spent time walking in the garden. In the afternoon he went to the mosque to offer Namaz.

Earlier on Friday evening he used to go to Manipura to watch movies but later his habits changed after realizing his wife never went to movies so he decided to spend time with Nadira. He started playing at home instead of going movie.

He liked talking with her & and her company than watching movie. Rashid care more and loves her very much. Since he was literate he tried to teach Nadira how to read. Rashid was simple, calm & understanding person.

Rashid was a simple (army) husband but he was not strong enough to stand against his family and traditions.

Mohammad Khan

Mohammad Khan was Nadira's father and lived in Kalyure. His only asset was a one-acre of coconut grove on the bank of Chandragiri river and a small mud hut in the middle of the grove. They sold ~~coconut~~ coconut, milk of ~~goats~~ goats & the chicks and the eggs. Mohammad Khan and his wife together were ~~coconut~~ friendly and sold them. This was their only source of income for household expenses.

(Mohammad Khan was tall and well built and had a beard like Nawvi. He always wore cap and a coat. He believed that wearing a coat was important to hide poverty. He was rude, short-tempered and stubborn in nature. He always wanted things to happen in his way. He behaved like a dictator and had very few friends. He did not like to work hard. He spent his time talking to people near river or mosque. He depended on his wife Farima to manage the family. He believed in male dominance. He thought woman had no feelings and must obey even he believed a woman should obey her father, husband and sons. He could not arrange money for Fatima's marriage.

He asked Rashid for help but Rashid refused. This made him angry and hurt his pride. He forcefully bought Nadira back to his house. He refused to send her back to her husband.
He forced her to take talaq from Rashid.
He tried to marry her to another man for money. He even arranged her marriage with an old man Sheikh Ali.
He did not care about Nadira's feelings
or happiness.

Mahammad Khan was strict, selfish & dominating man who believed in old traditions & forced his decisions on others which led to Nadira's tragic life.

at the end of the story, Nadira is left with no one to support her.
She is left alone in a world where
she is not wanted.

Fatima

Fatima was the wife of Mahammad Khan. She was 11 years old when she got married to Mahammad Khan.
He was 28 years old. She did not understand what marriage really meant. She only knew she would wear silk and gold clothes and group of women would sing ^{and dance} for her. Before she understood anything her marriage is already taken place. On the wedding night her husband Mahammad Khan behaved like
a tiger who is hungry for a meal.
He was a cruel and abusive husband.
He tortured, forced and beat her whenever she cried. He threatened to kill her. After marriage Fatima cried and wanted to stay with her parents. However, elders believed that she should go and live
with her husband. Her parents were convinced her to return Khan's home.

at the end of the story, Fatima is left alone in a world where
she is not wanted.

blamed at her husband house her life was very difficult. he was strict, short tempered, abusive, stubborn in nature, and he always wanted things in his way. He behaved like a dictator and believes that woman should always obey man, father, son or husband. He believed that woman had no feelings, but he completely depended on Fatima for living. Fatima took care of house, animals & also children. even though her milk is full of difficulties, she continued to perform her duty with dedication & patience. she was a hardworking woman she sold coconut, milk from cows and goats, egg & chicks for living. she also wove coconut pronds and sold them. one day while soaking coconut pronds in the river, she accidentally slipped and fell into water. Khan saved her but instead of comforting her he scolded her even though she faced difficulties in her life she was remained grateful to her husband.

she was thankful to that her husband did not marry another woman. she was also happy that he did not look at other women, even though she can't produce a son. As she is completely depend on him. she feels insecure without him. She became very worried if he came home late. she believed that a home without a man was not complete. she accepted her life without questioning anything.

Fatima was simple, patient & dependant woman who accepted her difficult life & trusted her husband for security.
